TO OUR PATRONS

You are cordially invited to attend our 4th Annual Chrysanthemum Show, which will open again from October through November of this year.

Nowhere else in the world can one enjoy the chrysanthemum show of early, intermediate, and extreme late varieties as you can under the clear autumn sky of our sunny Southern California.

We have made thousands of new friends and customers each year during the blooming season through the medium of our annual show, also it is a real pleasure indeed to meet old friends every fall. Words are often inadequate to explain the countless shades, types and forms we have in our displays each year. The old saying "Seeing is believing," is best expressed to describe the scene of our displays.

Our collections of Spidery-feathery types and Cascade varieties are unequalled anywhere else in the United States.

We believe the cultural suggestions for Cascades which you will find on the inside of back cover will be of some assistance to you.

Our cuttings of Chrysanthemums are taken from our strong and healthy FIELD GROWN PLANTS.

Respectfully yours,

SUNNY SLOPE 'MUMS GARDENS.

FEATHERY, SPIDERY, AND THREADLIKE VARIETIES

In these varieties, the florets are either fluted, quilled, or tubulated. The petals are of various length, with either spreading or long drooping florets. Most of the tubular petals are either hooked up or spoon-like at the extreme tips.

Until quite recently, this type was not accepted in many instances as a general commercial flower by both the growers and shippers principally because of the fragile nature of their petals. Many new varieties were either imported or improved in this country in recent years, and today we find much of this type being shipped successfully from the Northern section to the Los Angeles Market. Even when shipped to your local markets, we recommend to have the blooms packed individually with tissue papers.

The diameters indicated in following descriptions are those of extreme measurements with two to three flowers per plant.

Best result is obtained by retaining the terminal crown for these varieties as they produce longer petals. The DATES given in regard to maturity are those of average growing conditions when planted from cuttings in May or June.

Culture for Cascades

I. Cascading Chrysanthemums

Some of the necessary requirements for cascading varieties are: (a) varieties of naturally bushy and very floriferous types; (b) those with pliant stems but with sufficient strength to support their blooms erect; (c) those with very attractive blooms; (d) plants with blooms of lasting quality, etc. In these respects anemone type cascading varieties like "Comet," "Snow Bird," "Makie," "Rainbow Falls," "Aloha," "Senorita," and "Mt. Fuji" are strongly recommended. For single type, "Jane Harte" shares equal distinction for its abundant floriferous character. See our illustration on page 8.

II. Soils and Fertilizers

A compost as prepared by many consists of at least one-half by volume of peat (a well decayed oak leaf mould may be substituted) and well decomposed manure with remaining one-half of medium heavy loam. This compost may be prepared in large quantities at one time and be stored in the shelter for later use. In starting rooted cutting, it is advisable to use peat and loam only minus the manure.

As for the fertilizer, a very good formula which is recommended by many is 10-6-4, although we have applied 8-8-4 and have obtained successful results. The old method of obtaining liquid fertilizers from animal manures is considered obsolete today when commercial mixtures can be had so readily and the latter are much easier to use. Since chrysanthemums are considered gross feeders, they must be fed sparingly at bi-weekly intervals during the entire growing season up to the formations of their buds.

III. Re-Potting and Watering

Our plants are sold at April in 3 inch pots. They should be shifted into a 6 inch pot immediately. By early part of June the plants should be shifted again into 7 inch pots, and by the middle part of July they should be further shifted into 8 or 10 inch pots. Further re-potting depending on the variety and size of the plant. This process of shifting the plants into larger pots gradually is to avoid from becoming pot-bound. Fresh new compost should be added at each of these operations. As proper drainage is essential for all potted chrysanthemums, broken pots and small amount of coarse sand may be used as drainage. The top of the pot should have at least one inch of space to retain water when irrigated.

Watering should be attended to daily, and in no time during the growing stage the plants should be left dry.

Tying and Pinching

Cascades can be trained to various shapes to suit one's fancy, but the ordinary heart-shape drew best attention during our show. In training this type, the main growth is pinched at the top when the plant grows to 5 or 6 inches. Three new shoots are then allowed to rise preferably from the upper axils of the leaves. The leader is selected from the strongest of these new shoots. When the main leader is selected, the remaining two shoots are spreaded on each side of the leader and stopped at third or fourth joints.

When the main leader reaches the height of about 12 inches, it is bent from about the middle and the end tied to a fairly long No. 9 size galvanized wire which has been previously pushed into the soil and bent about 5 inches above the surface at the angle of 45 degrees. The supporting wire should point to north and the leader must be tied to it with raffia at least every 7 days.

All the laterals and sublaterals of both the main leader and basal shoots should be pinched at every second or third joints as they grow until around September 1st. The final pinching is very important in order to make the plant bloom simultaneously from the base to the tip. The chrysanthemums have the tendency of developing their blooms from the extreme tips, gradually moving toward their bases. This can be overcome by employing the final pinching in three different stages of 5 day intervals. The plant is first divided into three equal parts by drawing 2 imaginary horizontal lines. When the regular pinching is terminated on September 1st, the broadest one-third which is the base of the plant, is pinched on September 5th, the middle one-third on September 10th, and the final one-third on September 15th.

The main leader is lowered gradually so that it will be in the horizontal position around September 15th. When the buds begin to form the stem starts the gradual vertical bending from its horizontal level with the surface of the plant now facing south. This will be around October 1st for nearly all varieties in Southern California. The supporting wire must be bent down together with the main stem to avoid it from breaking at the base. When the buds show color, the pot is placed on high position so that the sprays will not touch the ground and bend to the final vertical position.
